

What do you do?

What does individuality mean to you?

Does individuality exist more or less nowadays?

Is it important in artistic fields?

What is the line between individuality and influence?

Is it harmful for mainstream media to only promote music that fits a very specific criteria?

Artists being used - 100 geecs, duster, weatherday, death grips, kero kero bonito,

Psychology talk courtesy of my psych class

Script :

Mainstream media has a standard. This is known in many aspects.

There are quality standards and technical standards, but what about style standards?

The mainstream media doesn't accept every style, in fact, there are many mainstream record labels that make their artists change their style in order to make it more acceptable to a larger audience.

There are large Television companies and news channels that do this . With the internet allowing a large amount of artists to publish their own unique stuff, it still ends up getting watered down and funnelled into the same mainstream standards.

With more artists than ever, people still have the same copy and paste sound as others, simply because it makes the most money. At this point, it's up to us, the consumer to decide if this is okay or not.